Experience the Magic of Winter at Lights Over Gatlinburg

Gatlinburg SkyBridge Glows with Holiday Cheer

Gatlinburg, TENN - Lights Over Gatlinburg returns to Gatlinburg SkyLift Park creating a magical winter season event on the top of Crockett Mountain. Beginning November 14, visitors can enjoy stunning mountain views and adventures by day and return at night to see the SkyLift Park come to life with holiday magic, sparkling displays and so much more.

To welcome the winter season, each night Gatlinburg SkyLift Park transforms into a wonderland of holiday music, dancing trees, snowflakes, sparkling displays and a magical tunnel of lights on the SkyBridge. Full of snowflakes and thousands of twinkling lights, visitors to the SkyBridge can walk through the glimmering 300-foot long tunnel of lights. The SkyTrail becomes an enchanting path of dancing trees synchronized to holiday music with ample opportunities for making photo memories. Family and friends alike can gather around the firepit and enjoy a warm cup of hot cocoa and enjoy the 30-foot tall dancing tree with synchronized holiday music.

During the daytime, visitors can walk the SkyTrail, an easy hiking path to the Tulip Tower to enjoy magnificent views of the record-breaking SkyBridge and Great Smoky Mountains. The SkyDeck and SkyTrail are decorated with dancing trees accompanied by holiday music and special holiday displays designed for ideal photo opportunities against the stunning mountain backdrop. SkyPass ticket holders are encouraged to visit the park during the day for the views and return at night for the holiday wonderland of lights.

“The winter season is a beautiful time to visit Gatlinburg,” says Randy Watson, General Manager. “SkyLift Park lights up Crockett Mountain and creates a truly magical experience for our visitors throughout the holidays and into the new year.”
